Board Leader Character & Effective Governance

Authors: Karen Fryday-Field, MBA, GSP and Marlene Janzen Le Ber, PhD, CHE

Systemic challenges that affect governance such as growing societal polarization, multiple and overlapping global crises, generational differences, and intersectional inequities require reimagining/redefining not only what effective governance is but also how to lead as a board entity rather than a collection of individual members. Board leader character (BLC) addresses this question.

Call for Presenters of Pre-Conference Course

Introduction to the Policy Governance® System: The Dynamic Fundamentals
Full Day Course

Thursday, June 13, 2024

If you are interest in facilitating this pre-conference one-day course, please submit a proposal to Karen Fryday-Field, CEO, GOVERN for IMPACT at ceo@governforimpact.org. See article below for more details.

Seeking an Experienced Policy Governance Trainer to Present a GOVERN for IMPACT Pre-Conference One-Day Course: Introduction to the Policy Governance System: The Dynamic Fundamentals

GOVERN for IMPACT is seeking a volunteer(s) interested in leading this one-day course on introduction to Policy Governance. Please submit your letter of interest along with a brief proposal outlining your approach to leading this one-day, in-person course. Please submit to the GOVERN for IMPACT CEO at ceo@governforimpact.org by February 26, 2024.

This year GOVERN will work with the successful presenter to fine-tune the course outline with the core curriculum such that the course will be able to be repeated over time. Please note it is possible for more than one governance expert to collaborate with others to present this course if that works best. Please include in your letter of interest information on your education in Policy Governance and your experience in teaching Policy Governance.
